

RETRACTION

Retraction: Psychological Support for Public-Funded Normal Students Engaged in Teaching Profession

Shize Zhi^{1,2,*}

¹School of Public Administration, Hunan Normal University, Changsha, 410081, China

²Changsha Normal University, Changsha, 410100, China

*Corresponding Authors: Shize Zhi. Email: zhishize@163.com

Published: 05 February 2024

The published article titled “Psychological Support for Publicly-funded Teacher Trainees to Engage in the Teaching Profession” has been retracted from International Journal of Mental Health Promotion, Vol. 24, No. 6, 2022, pp. 883–900.

DOI: 10.32604/ijmhp.2022.022536

URL: <https://www.techscience.com/IJMHP/v24n6/49949>

The author has admitted to plagiarizing the entire content of another article [1], and subsequently publishing it in International Journal of Mental Health Promotion. The author requested that the paper be withdrawn. The Editor-in-Chief of International Journal of Mental Health Promotion conducted a thorough review and confirmed the validity of the plagiarism, and decided that the paper should be retracted from the publication in order to maintain the integrity and credibility of the journal.

References:

1. Guo, J., Liu, Y., Chen, Y., Chai, G., Zhao, X. (2022). Psychological support for public-funded normal students engaged in teaching profession. Front Psychol, 13, 940431. doi: 10.3389/fpsyg.2022.940431.

